Futures for Kids Motivates Students With the Help of The Goodnight Educational Foundation

Cary, NC—January 12, 2007- Futures for Kids (F4K) received a little help motivating students to stay in school and prepare for the 21st century with a $5000 grant from The Goodnight Educational Foundation.

Based on the premise that kids with a plan are more successful in school, F4K uses business and community support to create an online career connection for students and help them understand the relationship between school and their future.

The grant will allow F4K to expand their resources and increase the number of students with access to the program. Offered to school systems at no charge, F4K is currently in 21 counties across North Carolina and will expand statewide within 18 months.

“Our commitment is to helping students reach their full potential. We know that if we can connect our kids with real people and companies across the state, it will keep them in school and on a path toward a fulfilling career,” said Susan Milliken, F4K Executive Director.

Futures for Kids is a non-profit that was created to bridge the gap between the hopes and dreams of our students and the workforce development needs of our communities.
